Obama Class

Obama students worked in teams to build the tallest tower using only biscuits and icing sugar . This was a great exercise for the students as it taught them collaborative team work and how to communicate as a team to get the best outcome. They also had to take turns to do this which helped in building their confidence. Obama students really enjoyed the exercise and had great fun at the same time.....although they didn't think the cleaning up was much fun!!!!